Odd Fellows' Hall every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Subject for November 24.—Soul and Body. Sunday School at 12:15. The public is cordially invited.

The High School hall was the scene of a very jolly gathering Friday evening. The Sophomore class lost in the inter-class debate and a feed, the wager, was served to the Freshman Class, the winners.

Ever Ready Safety Razor, including 12 blades, one dollar.—ORCHARD CITY DRUG CO., Campbell's Accommodating Cut Rate Druggists.—Adv.

Mrs. Stone and C. E. Stone, mother and brother of Mrs. G. H. Hubbard, arrived Sunday for a visit. Mr. Stone attended the Chicago Seminary, and recently has been engaged in mission work in Montana.

On account of Thanksgiving Day, the Southern Pacific Co. will sell at Reduced Rates, Nov. 26-27, 1912, where rate is over $10.00, Nov. 27-28, 1912, where rate is $10.00 or less. Return limit Dec. 2nd, 1912.—Adv.

At the Sunday School hour at the Congregational church Miss Nellie Arnott of Africa will speak to the boys and girls. Each one come and bring with you some boy or girl who does not go to Sunday School anywhere else, and hear about the little folks in the dark continent.

Miss Tessie Sherer, a nurse in San Francisco, came down Thursday evening to spend the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Geo. E. Atkinson. She was accompanied by Miss Jackson, head of the Operating Room in Trinity Hospital, San Francisco under whom Miss Sherer worked for some time.

The well on the Kennedy ranch has been completed and the force pump installed. The pump is a Caton two-step variety. The pit is 112 feet deep beneath which two wells are bored to a depth of 192 feet from the surface. If plenty of water is secured at this point it will mean a big increase in the value of surrounding property.

A Pleasant Trip

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Whitman returned last week from their extended trip in Oregon. They visited many of the most interesting points. Mr. Whitman said that the prune growers like many here are holding for a five cent basis price. Potatoes are twenty cents per bushel but many are being left in the ground owing to the shortage of cars at this time of year.

"The Cities of Oregon" said Mr. Whitman, "are working out the park system in every nook and corner which is making them very beautiful and attractive."

Golden Wedding at Cupertino

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Keesling, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Righter attended the Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Sanders of Cupertino last Monday afternoon.

The day was ideal. A large number of their friends were in attendance and it proved to be a very enjoyable occasion. Delicious refreshments were served and each person was presented with gold colored bells tied with yellow ribbon as a souvenir. Some extremely large beautiful yellow chrysanthemums were used in the decorations.

Aid Gives Supper

The Ladies Aid of the M. E. Church held a most interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. Baker, of Sunnyside, Thursday afternoon. There were about 25 ladies present and a most important business meeting was held. Most of the time was passed in planning for a supper to be given by the Ladies Aid on Friday evening, Dec. 6. It will be served in cafeteria style and will be one of those good old chicken pie suppers. A small bazaar will be held in the evening.

Candy, food and fancy work booths will be full of dainty and tempting articles.

A pleasant social time was enjoyed and delicious refreshments were served.

Young Girl Called Home

Elma Vida Gerken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gerken, passed away last evening at her home on South Second Street. She had been suffering since the first part of August and everything had been done to bring about her recovery. At the time of her death she was 13 years, 4 months and 18 days old, having spent the last 14 months in Campbell. She was a popular girl with her playmates and made many young friends who sincerely mourn her untimely death. She is survived by her parents, four sisters and two brothers. The funeral services will be held at the house Saturday afternoon at one o'clock. Interment will be made at Los Gatos cemetery.

Home and School Club

The Home and School Club met in regular session at 3 p. m. at the Grammar School.

Prof. Cramer of the Campbell High School rendered two beautiful vocal solos. Miss Arnott followed with a pleasing instrumental solo. As an encore Miss Arnott and Mrs. Baker favored the club with an instrumental duet.

Mrs. A. H. Whitman of San Jose then addressed the club on the subject of Child Study.

The next meeting will be Dec. 3, 1912.

COAL "WASTE."

The production of anthracite in Pennsylvania includes an appreciable quantity of usable fuel recovered from the old culm banks by washeries, and the unsightly monuments to the wasteful methods of early times are disappearing from the landscape in the anthracite region. The quantity of coal recovered in the 22 years since the first washery was constructed in 1890 has amounted to about 50,000,000 long tons, considerably more than the total production of anthracite at the beginning of the period. In 1911 the washery product amounted to 4,136,044 long tons. In addition to the coal recovered from the culm banks, 94,647 long tons in 1911, and 91,833 tons in 1910, were recovered from the bottom of the Susquehanna River by dredges.

In the bituminous regions the principal use of washeries is to improve the quality of the slack coal used in the manufacture of coke by reducing the ash and sulphur, altho considerable quantities, particularly in Illinois, are washed in the preparation of sized coal for household use. The quantity of bituminous coal washed at the mines in 1911 was 12,543,114 short tons. The washeries yielded 10,999,481 tons of cleaned coal and 1,543,633 tons of refuse.

A Few Facts on Education of Farmers.

The average farmer, coming up from the elementary schools earned an average of $318.00 a year—from the High Schools $622.00 and from the Agricultural Colleges $847.00. During the last 5 years the yield of corn in the Southern States has increased 100 per cent. A Texas agricultural pupil went home and raised 32 bushels of corn per acre, while his father raised but 11 bushels—the next year the same pupil increased his yield to 42 bushels, and the father 14. The third year the young man's crop yielded 60 bushels, and his father's 42. By fertilization and scientific handling of the soil the young man doubled his receipts, while the father nearly quadrupled his—by imitation. The milk average per cow in this country in 1850 was 167 gallons. In 1900 it had been increased to 424 gallons. The educated farmer will not retain a cow in his herd that does not pay a good dividend. Fifty years ago, when some of us followed the plow, farm horses were worth about one half what they are now. In all lines of farming, great strides have been made, and the end not only has not been reached, but it is not even in sight. Teach the boys and girls of the farm the scientific but practical methods of farming and fewer of them will leave the sure results of the farm for the uncertainties of the city.

Play Ball!

One of the biggest and funniest performances ever witnessed in this little city will be enacted on the local high school ball diamond Thanksgiving Day afternoon. The contestants on this occasion will be the Single Men and the Married Men. Pick your favorite and come out to root. The real contest will be over the umpire. Must be married or single. Ump may be a lady in these equal suffrage times. Come and see.

J. L. Hagelin returned last evening from a business trip to the San Joaquin valley.

Congregational Church

We consider ourselves fortunate for next Sunday, Nov. 24—following the use of the fine set of H. M. Charts last Sunday, next Sunday at 11 A. M. Rev. C. E. Stone of Montana will speak on: "Pioneering in the Montana Mountains." In the evening, Miss Nellie Arnott, recently home from 7 years in Africa will speak at 7:30 on "Africa and her People," illustrated by maps, and curios from "The Dark Continent." You are all most cordially invited to enjoy these two treats with us.

GEO. E. ATKINSON, Pastor.

Prof. Cramer went to San Jose this afternoon with the local pride, the basketball team, which will do battle with the Normalites.

Plans are being arranged for a basketball game between the regular High team and the Alumni organization, Thanksgiving Day. The hour has not been definitely decided upon but will be known later. This promises to be a "hum-dinger" as the Alumni and present team are both strong.

WAS CHEAPER TO BE ROBBED

Porch Climber Convinces Householder of Wisdom of Making No Noise While Being Held Up.

"Please don't shoot!" cried the burglar.

"Why not?" asked the householder.

"You came here to steal—to kill, if you found it necessary. The law lets me shoot."

"I know," said the porch climber. "But looky—here! For your own sake I advise yer not to pull the trigger!"

"Why not?"

"I'll tell yer. When y' shoot, th' perlice will come. They'll bust the first face they sees, tramp all over yer carpets, drag yer wife outer bed, an' wake up yer neighbors. Then they'll drag yer to a bedbuggy cell, an' keep yer dere as a witness till de trial. Den y'll hafta hire expensive lawyers. If y're lucky, I git sent ter jail an' youse git soaked about fifty bones. Go back ter bed, feller, an' lemme take dis wad. Youse kin sleep, an' all I gets is $32.68—I counted it."

"Go in peace!" exclaimed the householder. "Burglars are cheaper than courts!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Requirements.

"Yes," said Dustin Stax, "there are $100,000 jobs waiting for young men who are competent to fill them."

"What requirements would you expect?"

"Well, he'd have to show that he was competent to establish and run as big a business as mine on his own account. And then, of course, he wouldn't need the job."

IT SOUNDED HEARTLESS.

Elaine—Were you much hurt in the auto accident?

Donald—Just the merest scratch.

Elaine—I'm so sorry.

He Was Literary.

"Colonel Brown seems to be very literary," remarked a visitor to the Brown household to the negro maid, glancing at a pile of magazines lying on the floor.

"Yas, ma'am," replied the ebony-faced girl, "yas, ma'am, he sholey am literary. He jes' nat'ally littahs things all over dis yere house."—Woman's Home Companion.

Inconsistent.

"This author takes up more than a hundred pages in analyzing his heroine's soul."

"Oh, well. You shouldn't blame him for that."

"I wouldn't blame him, if it were not for the fact that later on he proves conclusively his heroine is a soulless creature."

Rough on Louie.

"Have you heard about Mrs. Whopper's latest acquisition?"

"No. What has she bought this time to startle the natives?"

"She told me yesterday that she had received from her Paris agent twelve pieces of genuine Louis Quince furniture."

Saving Time.

"I see you are carrying home a new kind of breakfast food," remarked the first commuter.

"Yes," said the second commuter. "I was missing too many trains. The old brand required three seconds to prepare. You can mix up this new kind in a second and a half."

The Altitude Record.

"A French aeronaut has ascended to a height of 18,766 feet."

"That's nothing. When my wife came into the office the other morning and caught me joking with the pretty stenographer she had me fifty miles up in the air."

Heard on the Sidewalk.

"What's the matter, old man?"

"That confounded boxoffice clerk had the cheek to offer me a back seat."

"And you took affront, eh?"

"No, sir; I wouldn't take any."

Best She Could Do.

"I can not live without you!" he declared.

"Don't say that," she replied. "I shall not marry you, but I will ask father to give you a job."—Judge's Library.

THE NEWS FROM HOME

DOES ANY MAN OUTLIVE THE PLEASURE IT GIVES HIM?

Homely Message Makes an Appeal to the Most Imaginative of Us, Though We May Have Wandered Far.

No matter how highly cultivated your taste in literature may be nor how exalted the position in life to which you have attained, the letter from home, with its bits of "news" written by mother, makes an appeal to you that no other written or printed words can make. No matter how beautiful or splendid your city environment may be, your mother's wish is your own when she writes:

"I have been frying doughnuts this morning and I wish that you were here to get some of them."

"We butchered yesterday, but did not kill the six or seven big hogs we used to kill when you children were all at home. We killed only one yesterday and he weighed 298 pounds dressed. We sent some of the spare-ribs around to the neighbors."

"I made up my mince-meat for Thanksgiving last week, and hope you will be here to get one of my turnovers that you used to like so well. Somehow, my mince-meat does not seem to taste so good as usual, but maybe it will be all right when it has stood a little while."

"Lucina Green, one of your first sweethearts, has a new pair of twin boys. With eight already, and her husband poor as Job's turkey, some think they didn't really need the twins."

"Your father got his barrel of cider home from the mill yesterday. He thinks it the best he has ever had. It seems uncommon clear and sweet. We wish you were here to get some of it."

"Cy Slimm, who used to go to school with you, has parted from his wife. They call it that one is about as much to blame as the other. They never did hit it off very well from the start. Cy's wife's sister is also getting a divorce, so it runs in the family. It is no way to do."

"Bud Tansy, who is just three days and four hours older than you, fell from the loft of his barn the other day and broke two of his right ribs. They say that his language was awful, and there is some talk of having him brought before the church for some things he said. The Tansys always was noted for their profane swearing."

"Clem Long has a fine new buggy and a high-stepping little nag to go with it. All the girls are disposed to be good friends with Clem now. He took Susie Beane out for a ride Sunday afternoon and her mother is passing it out that Susie can keep on riding permanent in the buggy if she wants to, but we all know Hannah Beane."

"The spotted calf you admired so much the last time you was at home is now quite a cow and I think of you every time I look at her. She gives more milk than any other young cow we ever had and she is going to be a fine butter maker. A man with one of these snapshot photograph things come along the other day and took a picture of her and your father which I will send you, although your father has only his everyday clothes. All well with us and hope these few lines will find you the same."—Judge.

Senses of Plants.

The sense most developed in plants is that of sight, which enables them to see light but not to distinguish objects. This sense limitation is found among many living creatures, such as the earthworm, oyster, and coral, etc., which possess no localized visual organ, but give proof of their luminous impressions by the contractions that they manifest when exposed to a ray of sunshine. Similarly, it is easy to gauge the influence of light on plants. Cultivate a plant in a room with a window only on one side and its stalks in growing will incline toward the source of light. Physiologists explain this by suggesting that the side to the dark grows more quickly than that exposed to the light. There remains, however, the fact that the plant has reacted to the light, of whose effect it was conscious.

A sense common to many plants is that of touch. Of this the most illustrative example is, as its name implies, the sensitive plant. Another leaf, responsive to the touch, is the catch-fly, whose two halves close down upon the other by means of a central hinge.—Harper's Weekly.

Children Natural Born Liars.

In a sermon on the vigilance of parents, at the Catholic Church of the Assumption in Cranberry street, Rev. William J. Donaldson, the rector, said among other things that parents were too prone to believe that their children could tell only the truth, and were incapable of telling a falsehood. He said that as a matter of fact that most little children were natural born liars.

"Please don't believe," he told the many parents of his congregation, "all of the tales of ill treatment your little folks bring home from school. Doubtless each one of you think that your own particular youngster is a marvel of innocence, a little George Washington, whose statements must be true, and straightway you shower criticism on very hard working, patient teachers who try to correct him. I deplore the tendency of parents to give credence to all a child may say, when as a matter of fact, little children are natural born liars."—Brooklyn Eagle.

In the PUBLIC EYE

BEARS MEXICANS' PLEA TO PRESIDENT

Senor Zeferino Dominguez, a wealthy Mexican planter, as representative of land owners, agriculturists and other citizens of the twenty-seven states of Mexico, recently submitted to President Taft a plan which, he hopes, will bring peace, and insure, permanent freedom from unrest in his country.

Regarding his plans, Senor Dominguez said:

"The plan I have in view is that the land owners of Mexico join with the government in giving the poor people access to the land. At present 7,000 families own all the land in Mexico. There are 12,000,000 persons who own nothing and have no interest whatever in the land."

"The way to pacify the poor people is to give them an interest in something. As the situation stands, they can earn more in two hours' looting than in one year's work."

"The plan I offer includes also the establishment and maintenance of a strong army for defense and for the suppression of outlawry. We suggest that the army be a form of militia and that the soldiers, when not engaged in military duties, be employed on farms set aside for the purpose. As an inducement to men to enter and remain in the service, each soldier would receive a small farm at the end of his term."

"The situation which confronts us in Mexico is this: We have a government which cannot control the rebels, and we have rebels who cannot defeat the government."

"Intervention would be disastrous to all. The United States might send an army of 500,000 men into Mexico; it might hold the City of Mexico and all the principal ports, but it will not hold the country. There are too many mountains and too many tribes."

PRESIDENT FALLIERES IS CALLED STINGY

President Fallieres is again being subjected to criticism on the score of parsimony. When, a few years ago, the king and queen of Norway were guests of the republic, an accident happened at Versailles which might easily have had fatal consequences for the queen and Mme. Fallieres.

The postillion who was riding one of the horses drawing the state landau, in which they sat, took too sharp a turn in crossing a bridge spanning the ornamental lake near Trianon, and fell with his mount into the water. Happily the carriage remained on the bank.

It was stated at the time that since M. Fallieres' installation the Elysee stable was farmed out, and that horses and servants were supplied by a contractor. Thus the accident was explained on the ground of the postillion's inexperience. M. Fallieres was then accused of farming out his stables in order to reduce the expenses of his occupation of the Elysee, and a part of the Paris press denounced his efforts to economize at the expense of the prestige of the republic.

Similar attacks are being made now in connection with the visit of the Grand Duke Nicholas Nikolaevitch, who, with his uncle, has been provided with vehicles of shabby appearance, poor-looking horses, and coachmen in ill-fitting old liveries.

RAJ RANA OF JHALAWAR A REFORMER

The Raj Rana of Jhalawar, whose portrait is herewith presented, is the representative of a most illustrious branch of the Solar race, the ruler of an important state, and a reformer who is endeavoring to introduce modern conditions without giving umbrage to the upholders of past traditions, than which, as we know, there is no more difficult task. The historian of India shows how the British conquered the peninsula from a number of races by converting the enemies of one period into the allies of the next; but it has never been made sufficiently clear that there was one race with which England never warred, the Rajputs of Rajasthan, "the Land of Princes." It was due to the wisdom of an ancestor of the Rana of Jhalawar, that the Rajputs sought and obtained an alliance and protection in the critical period of the eighteenth century, when the Marathas seemed for a moment likely to anticipate Great Britain in the unification of India. This prince was Zalim Singh Regent, and, practically speaking, ruler of Kotah for fifty years. Of him Colonel Tod, in perhaps the most entrancing work that any Englishman has penned on India, has given a vivid picture, as the wise man who conducted his country through the shoals and breakers of a stormy period, and his reflected glory descends on his successor, Bhawani Singh, the subject of this portrait.

HAPPENINGS IN THE CITIES

One New York Policeman's Devotion to Duty

NEW YORK.—A new form of torture for policemen, more sinister than graft investigations, more painful than winter wind whipping around a fixed post, and possessed of possibilities as deadly as the burglar's bullet, was put to the test on placid Washington Heights the other night and described in Harlem court the other morning by a red faced young policeman.

Facing the victim—Policeman Geiger of the West One Hundred and Fifty-second street station—as he told Magistrate House about it, was a handsome, dark haired woman, who frequently blushed and murmured "Impossible! Oh, I couldn't have done that!"

"Yes, your honor, she kissed me," stammered Geiger. "Right out in the middle of Amsterdam avenue at One Hundred and Fortieth street she kissed me, and there's nothing in the manual that says part of a policeman's duty is being kissed by strangers."

"Couldn't you have escaped if you didn't like it?" asked the court.

"I was on fixed post, your honor," groaned the youthful guardian of the peace.

"Oh," said his honor, "that's devotion to duty!"

"Yes, sir; it was like this. I was standing there all alone about 1:30, wondering where all the people were. Suddenly some one grabs me from behind and two strong arms are wrapped around my neck. The first thing I thought, of course, was 'gangsters!' It seemed whoever it was was trying to garrote me and I started to fight for my life."

"But I couldn't shake off those powerful arms. The best I could do was to squirm around so that I faced the—the—er—the assailant. And, your honor, it was this lady."

"Then she kissed me, and that's not the worst of it, for by this time a big crowd had collected and women were yelling and men were shouting."

Mrs. Margaret Hoefflert, who said she was 30 and lived at 1071 Freeman street, the Bronx, smiled sweetly but incredulously as she paid a ten dollar fine. She said Geiger looked like a truthful young officer, and she wouldn't dispute his word, though she didn't remember a thing about it.

Deacon Given Plenty of Time for Meditation

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—"Some folks say that a nigger won't steal," are among the lines of a song that is very popular with the street corner quartets, and of course is sung in an ironical vein. As a matter of fact, however, to the casual observer at the daily sessions of the police court here are few negroes who steal.

The other morning an undersized, brown-skinned negro was arraigned before the recorder's court on a charge of petty larceny. He gave his name as Charles Reader, and also informed John Douglas that he was a member of the Baptist church and a deacon at that. The specific charge against the diminutive Ethiopean was the theft of half a dozen watch fobs.

The store detective stated that he observed the defendant lingering around the counter whereon is displayed an assortment of jewelry that fairly dazzles the eye—that is when the electric lights were all ablaze—and that he further observed the negro shove a watch fob on the floor and cover it with his foot. He watched the operation repeated until no less than half a dozen fobs, resplendent with jewels that rivalled the colors of the rainbow, were on the floor and covered by the ample feet of the little deacon.

"Are you guilty of attempting to steal the articles referred to?" asked the judge.

"Ah doesn't deny dat ma fut war on dat jewelry, but hit slipped offen de counter an' ah jest couldn't 'sist kiverin' hit wid ma shoe."

"Did the other article slip off the counter also?"

"Jedge, hit war cur'os how dem orders got ter de flo' dat must er bin dar all ready an' jedge, while ah stood dar somethin' came ter ma mind dat ah had bettah put dem back on de counter an' jest as ah war pickin' dem up ah war 'rested."

"Deacon, it is evident that you are given to meditation and for one of your peculiar talents your opportunity for such should be increased. In order to give you plenty of time to reflect I will assess you $25 and 25 days extra."

Police Stop Shower of Vegetables at a Feast

CLEVELAND, O.—While Patrolmen Mangan and Oliver went to 1420 Caton court the other day to investigate a riot call they were the target for tomatoes, bricks, dishpans and old shoes, thrown, police say, with surprisingly good aim by four colored persons in the house. When the bombardment ceased the officers placed the quartet under arrest.

At the station they gave the names of Mary Redmond, fifty-three years old; Bertha Owens, twenty-seven years old; Mary Jefferies, fourteen years old and Thomas Owens, thirty-nine years old. All gave their address as 1420 Caton court.

The police say the four had a chicken feast in the house. Dinner started at 12 o'clock. At 2 o'clock neighbors thought the "Honey Boy Evans troupe" had forgotten to leave town and were having another ball game in the vicinity. They notified the police.

Lieutenant Sterling sent the officers there on the run. When they knocked at the door it was opened.

"What's all the noise about?" asked Oliver.

"We am just celebratin', ain't we, folks," said Owens.

"And we sure are some celebrants," said one of the women as she hurled a bottle at the officers. It whistled by Oliver's ear, and tomatoes, bricks and dishes followed. The door was then banged shut and the two officers, their appearance decidedly marred, held a conference. Oliver wiped the remains of a tomato off his face while Mangan nurses a bump on his head. They decided to break down the door and rush the inhabitants.

They did and after a free-for-all fight the quartet was arrested. The wagon was called and the celebrants rolled away. They are charged with assault and battery. As the Jefferies girl is under age she will be turned over to the juvenile authorities.

Angry Cook Creates Havoc With Soup Dishes

CHICAGO.—Unfortunately for the customers and waiters in B. Clayton's restaurant, 446 North Clark street, the cook was not feeling well that night. The cook was Miss Emma Johnson and the night Monday.

Something, as yet unrevealed, but hinted at as indigestion, had spoiled Miss Johnson's temper in the afternoon, and by evening she was in such a rage that the waiters, accustomed to take a customer's order with that superior air many waiters have, were subdued and almost subservient in their attitude, even toward those who ordered "ham and."

Things went along smoothly for a time, considering Miss Johnson's state of mind, because of the conciliatory attitude of the waiters toward her, until one disingenuously ventured to return to her a steak which had been criticised by a diner as "overdone."

Almost simultaneously dishes began to fly in the kitchen in such profusion that some hurtled through the door into the dining room. They were followed by Miss Johnson, who, with an armful and selecting customers and waiters indiscriminately as targets, let fly in every direction, and with vigor. Imagination cannot picture the ensuing scene—overturned soup tureens, diners covered with gravy, others making for the door with spinach in their hair, others strangling on hot coffee suddenly swallowed as they received an unexpected blow on the chin from one of the pieces of Miss Johnson's artillery—but why prolong the agony?

That Miss Johnson was fined ten dollars and costs by Municipal Judge Maxwell because of her temper may be some consolation to the waiters, but it is understood that customers who since its display have invested generously in digestion tablets continue unappeased. Miss Johnson is thirty-five years old.

"Real Fisherman's Luck for Duke's Mixture Smokers"

Good tobacco and a good reel! That's surely a lucky combination for the angler—and here's the way you can have them both.

Drying Bottles and Lamp Chimneys.

Take the handle of an old broom and cut it into 12-inch lengths. Fasten these sticks in upright position to a board one inch thick, placing them seven inches apart. After rinsing the bottles, vases, etc., turn them upside down over these sticks to dry. If a handle is placed at each end of the board, it will be an easy matter to move it about from place to place—Woman's Home Companion.

Eat Albatross Eggs.

The natives of Hawaii are large consumers of albatross eggs, which are secured principally from the Island of Laysan, the Hawaiian group. These eggs are so plentiful on this island that they are gathered in wheelbarrows and carried to the shore in boxes and loaded on a small industrial railroad.

MATCH PUZZLE IS CONFUSING

All the Eighteen Little Pieces of Wood Must Be Used in Each Case—Answer Is Given.

In the illustration 18 matches are shown arranged so that they enclose two spaces, one just twice as large as the other. Can you rearrange them (1) so as to enclose two four sided spaces, one exactly three times as large, and (2) so as to enclose two five sided spaces, one exactly three times as large as the other? All the 18 matches must be fairly used in each case, the two spaces must be detached, and there must be no loose end or duplicated matches.

The easiest way is to arrange the 18 matches as in diagram 1 and 2, making the length of the perpendicular A B equal to a match and a half. Then if the matches are an inch in length, Fig. 1 contains two square inches and

Answer to Match Puzzle.

Fig. 2 contains six square inches—four by one and one-half. The second case (2) is a little more difficult to solve. The solution is given in Fig. 3 and Fig. 4. For the purpose of construction place matches temporarily on the dotted lines. Then it will be seen that as Fig. 3 contains five equal equilateral triangles and Fig. 4 contains 15 similar triangles, one figure is three times as large as the other, and exactly 18 matches are used.

The English visitor was getting impressions as to American education. "And do you know your alphabet?" he asked of the small boy in the house he was visiting.

"Yep," said the lad—"A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J."

"Hold on there, my little lad," said the visitor. "Haven't you left out a letter?"

"Yep," said the boy. "I dropped my H. I wanted to see if an English man would notice it."

BOXING IN EVENING SCHOOL

Successful Educational Enterprises of Scotch Mining Town—Clerical Members Opposed.

By introducing boxing to the evening school curriculum the school board of Girkinillock, a mining center several miles from Glasgow, has added to its reputation for education enterprise, according to the Glasgow correspondent of the London Chronicle.

Last autumn the local community at Kirkinillock were agitated over a school board proposal to institute dancing as one of the evening school subjects. Mr. Thomas Johnston, a Glasgow journalist, who was responsible for the proposal, carried his point after convincing opponents that whether the school board took the initiative or not the youth of the district would indulge in dancing, and that it was the best policy for the school board to organize the dancing in a moral atmosphere.

To carry out this proposal the school board used the town hall and employed a full orchestra, and it was stipulated that only those youths who enrolled in one of the other classes in the evening school would be admitted to the dancing hall. The resolution was surprisingly successful. Such was the increase in the number of pupils enrolled for the evening school that the board gained extra grants from the educational department in respect of increased attendances, which were actually sufficient to reduce the education levy on the ratepayers.

Inspired by the success of the dancing venture Mr. Johnston urged the desirability of boxing as an evening school subject. With several clerical members on the school board there was naturally a good deal of opposition, but Mr. Johnston argued that they had never attracted the type of individual to the evening school who most needed this continuation schooling. They must get down to the level of these young fellows.

The discussion ended in a close vote, and it was only by the casting vote of the chairman that the board agreed to include boxing in the curriculum.

HOME-MADE SCIENTIFIC TOY

One Cannot Have Too Many Devices to Furnish Outdoor Amusement—Latest Is Shown Hereafter.

During the summer days you can't have too many things to furnish outdoor amusement. A lot of fun can be had out of the simple little device here shown, which any boy (or girl) can easily make. There are two parts, the blade and the handle. The blade is made from a piece of wood six inches long by one inch wide, and three-eighths of an inch or a little less in thickness. Choose a piece of soft wood that will whittle easily. This is shaved down until rather thin, slanting the two ends in opposite directions, just as in making a windmill. The handle should be of the same length, made round, one-fourth of an inch in diameter. It will stay in the blade better if the hole to receive it is square, rather than round, but a pin driven through the joint will make it secure in either case.

To fly it, place the handle between the flattened palms, as in the illustration, and draw them forcibly over each other. If it is well made, a strong boy can send it 20 feet or more up in the air, and 30 or 40 in a horizontal direction. Two boys, standing 20 feet or so apart, can have great sport with it, as it is not so easy to catch as it looks, often returning, like a boomerang, from the catcher's very hands, to fall almost at the feet of the sender. If it "wobbles," the stem is either too short or too light for the blade. If the blades are not slanted in the direction shown in the cut, it will have to be whirled in the opposite direction.

NEW GAME FOR HALLOWEEN

Pastime as Described Warranted to Furnish All Mysterious Misgivings, Thrills and Shivers.

In connection with the usual Halloween charms and incantations the following game—warranted to reek with all the mysterious misgivings, thrills and shivers appropriate to the occasion—is recommended as very jolly and entirely suited to "witching night." It is of French extraction, is called "Sous Table," and is played as follows:

As the players sit close together round the table with their hands well under the overhanging folds of the tablecloth the game would better be played at or after the refreshment stage of the proceedings. It consists of passing from hand to hand, and quite without looking at them, all sorts of articles prepared to be particularly gawdies to the touch, and he or she who shrieks, laughs or drops an article is liable to forfeit.

The articles, concealed by a napkin, are held on the lap of the hostess as she sits at the head of the table and she passes one by one of them—always under the folds of the tablecloth—from her right hand to her neighbor's left; he does likewise and so on round the table. When the article comes back to the hostess she drops it under the table and takes up the next one from her lap and so on till the supply of articles is exhausted. With a choice lot of carefully prepared horrors this game may be worked up into a real Halloween hit.

A limp bean bag, a lucky rabbit foot, a fluff of cotton wool, a baby's angora mitten loosely stuffed with cotton batting, the working end of a superannuated feather duster, a bit of fur, an old bead purse, a scrap of chamois skin are among the things which—perfectly innocent in themselves and entirely unawesome when seen—cause us to shrink and shiver when we touch them without knowing what they are. The trump card at this game—and one sure to bring in many fines in the forfeits—when lately played at our house was a woman's kid glove firmly stuffed, with all the fingers spread, with damp sea sand and kept in the icebox until needed for the game.

AGAIN the cycle of time is bringing to us the day, instituted and revered by our forefathers, and endeared to ourselves by many tender memories; memories of the days when childhood's joys were ours, and the prospective "turkey and mince pie" loomed large to our childish vision as embodying the significance of Thanksgiving; memories of later years when the scattered loved ones gathered once more under the old roof-tree, to share in the observance of the day. Oh, the joy of "going home for Thanksgiving"! Few of us there be who have not known it.

At this bountiful harvest time when peace and prosperity reign in our land, let us not fail to render fitting tribute, on the day so set apart as a national anniversary, of thanksgiving, to the Giver of our manifold blessings.

IT occurs to us as Thanksgiving draws near that one of the things for which we should be most thankful, is the mere fact that we live in
